WAREWATER DAMAGE DECREE IS CALLED AN OUTRAGE

Commissioner Lavelle Claims Mill Was Purchased for $159,250 and Unloaded on State for $305,708

EXCLUSIVE!

By JAMES J. SMITH
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

A verdict of $305,708.33 damages to be paid by the state to a textile company for diversion of water power was characterized as an "outrage" today at the same time it became known that three Boston men had purchased the property and the company's claim for $159,250.

The characterization was made by Thomas D. Lavelle, of the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission, who said the verdict would not be recognized and that motion for a new trial would be made.

BOUGHT PLANT FOR $159,250
William J. MacDonald and Max Schochman, realtors, and Bernard Goldfine, wool merchant, all of Boston, comprised the trio that obtained control of the George H. Gilbert Mfg. Co. of Gilebertville and Ware, and sued the state.

They are said to have bought the mills when they were shut down, after buying off for $10,000 another group competing for the property.

With their $159,250 they got real estate and machinery worth not less than $200,000—$40,000 cash in the bank—total liquidated for $45,000—and the claim which a jury at Northampton recently decided was worth nearly $306,000.

VOYAGE, SAYS LAVELLE
With those assets came liabilities totaling $242,000.

The crowd that put this thing over is the same that attempted to pay this verdict. A greater outrage was never perpetrated.

Lavelle said that Damon E. Hall, special assistant attorney-general, who handled the state's case at the Northampton trial, would go before Judge Edward T. Broadhurst in Middlesex court Monday to petition for a new trial on the ground the damages were excessive. Judge Broadhurst presided at the Northampton trial.

COUNCIL READY FOR WAR
If the commission had decided to agree to payment of the damages assessed in the verdict, a fight in the governor's council, similar to the Ely-Youngman-Council battle over the Worcester turnpike award, would probably have resulted, with Councilor Winfield Schuster, of Douglas, leading the opposition, it is said.

MacDonald became president of the Gilbert Co. after the purchase; Goldfine the treasurer, and Schochman a director.

The trial in Northampton superior court lasted 26 days. But the price paid for the property was not submitted in evidence.

The Gilbert plants had been turning out textiles since 1897.

Farley Expected to Bring Plum to Ex-Mayor

Boston unites tonight in paying the greatest tribute in its history to an individual, a citizen who has devoted years of his life to serving her interests.

Political distinctions and party lines will be forgotten as leaders from all walks of life, high officials of the city, state and government, and religious dignitaries of different faiths join in paying honor to former Mayor James M. Curley.

FARLEY BRINGS FLEM
Plans for the affair, underway for the past month, have been directed by Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, and James Roosevelt, son of the President, both close friends of the former mayor.

The tribute has been titled a non-partisan, friendship dinner, and will be held at the Copley-Plaza ballroom with tables in the adjoining music foyer to accommodate the throng.

A 12-cylinder up-to-the-minute limousine of one of the most expensive makes will be presented to the former mayor during the dinner tonight, the gift of 1200 leading citizens of the town.

One of the most prominent guests at the banquet will be Postmaster General James A. Farley, patronage chief of the Roosevelt administration, and a close friend of Mayor Curley. Reports from authenticated sources in Washington, yesterday declared that Farley will bring tidings from Washington to delight the heart of the former mayor.

Considerable speculation has been rampant here since the election of President Roosevelt, regarding the reward which the former mayor would receive for his untiring efforts in Roosevelt's campaign and pre-campaign activities.

It is understood that Postmaster Farley will reveal that reward tonight as one of the highlights of the dinner.

ON RADIO NETWORK
The banquet program will be broadcast at 8 p. m. and at 10:30 p. m. will be put on a nationwide network for 15 minutes.

James Roosevelt will be toastmaster. Among the distinguished speakers will be Postmaster Farley, Judge Fuchs, Judge Aaron J. Levy, of the New York Supreme Court; Mr. Haberlin, Rev. Ernest J. Dennen, Rabbi Harry Levy and the former mayor.

NATIONAL CODE MOST N. E. AREA

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—A spokesman for the farm adjustment administration insisted today that New England would be included in a national milk production control program despite the vigorous opposition of that section.

His prediction was made while a New England delegation was in conference with A.A.A. officials on the new license and agreement soon to be promulgated for the Boston market.

The New England group, summoned to Washington for a discussion of the new program, had expected that details of the revised license would be made known today but no such disclosure was forthcoming.

AAA officials said the license and agreement probably would not be made public for several days. Today's discussion centered upon the minimum producers' price under the new program, which allows the retail price fixing now in effect.

Three controversial phases were under discussion, production control, base raising and equalization, and differentials between store and home delivery prices. The New England producers as a unit opposed production control, which favors a lower price for their area, the Massachusetts producers objected to equalization and those favoring a lower price for store sales had the support of Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, who recently won Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on the subject.

LOWER PRICES SEEN
The administration plan to abolish retail price fixing is expected to make possible a lower store price, progress, Rep. McCormack of Boston sent a message to Secretary Wallace urging "adequate protection for producers and consumers" in new licenses of agreements to be drawn.

Attending today's conference were Dr. E. H. Barrett, president of Consolidated Dairies; W. P. Davis, manager of Consolidated Dairies; D. A. Beebe of the United Farmers Cooperative Union; Charles F. Adams, treasurer of First National Dairies of Boston; J. F. McLennan of the Hollows Milk Co.; C. H. Hurlburt of the Milk Co-operative Creamery; Harvey S. Turner, president of the Massachusetts Dairyman's association; and Charles M. Norris of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation.

Welfare Island Felons Reveal Threats

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Mutterings from disgruntled prisoners produced an air of tension over the Welfare Island penitentiary today.

The picked corps of officers and guards, under Austin H. MacCorquodale, commissioner of correction, who uncovered a veritable island kingdom of crime and vice in their jurisdiction, "saw" three days ago, were prepared for trouble.

Commissioner MacCorquodale said he expected the next two or three days to bring a "world's worst prison."

So far, 28 narcotic users have started trouble and been forced into hospital wards.

While the name of a Tuamary Hall politician was whispered as the power behind the gang rulers of Welfare Island, these overloads were held in solitary confinement.

Additional heavy wire fences have been erected in the prison yards and at the approaches, and the iron gates, usually unlocked, from the main reception room to the main entrance of the administration building were barred and bolted.

Ed Cleary, boss of the Irish "mob," and Joey Rao, head man of the Constabulary, were among the most of them sources of the narcotic racket, were locked up alone. They threatened reprisals.

The commissioner said he hoped they would be kept in solitary confinement today. The complete today the separation and segregation of the narcotic addicts, the insane, ill, diseased and abnormal inmates from the main body.

"We can't quit this activity now, that is certain," Rainey said. "We said that CWA would have to be continued this fiscal year and part of the next. The fiscal year ends June 30."

PROTEST FAILS TO HALT PLANS

With heads of the transportation trust, which seeks to group additional fares from the pocket of working men and women of four nearby communities, announcing that the proposed increase would "work no hardship," the newly-proposed merger of the Boston Elevated and the Narragansett Railroad today threatened to equal a pending $3,500,000 housing project.

Ignoring the storm of protests, which civic organization leaders in Haver, Wintrop, Chelsea and Lynn filed when news of the proposed merger was announced, Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, chairman of the Board of Transportation, announced today that the increase will come without hardship to any one.

"There was no statement issued to the effect that an investigation would seek means to launch the much needed project without adding additional burden to the already overburdened working men and women of the communities affected."

Under present plans of the railroad magnates for the merging of the two transportation systems, millions of square feet of land, upon which was to have been launched a giant housing project by the Boston Port Development Co., would be grabbed by the railroad. Sullivan also issued a statement on this that did not promise to ease the

NEW YORK HOTELS PICKETED IN STRIKE OF 30,000

New York, Jan. 27 (INS)—Confident of inflicting additional walkouts, the Amalgamated Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union which last night called 30,000 cooks and waiters from hotels, cafes and clubs in a general strike, today began picketing all business places that refused recognition of their union.

This strike is the result of a walkout of 600 employees from the Waldorf-Astoria last Tuesday, when Andre Fouquet, chef, was dismissed, the management said, for incompetency. Strikers said he was fired because of union activities.

The union demands a minimum wage of $20 weekly and a 40-hour week.

BOY SLAYER IN COLLAPSE IN N. H. CELL

Philly, N. H., Jan. 27.—Charles B. Phillips Jr. was in a state of near-collapse in his cell here today, weeping at the refusal of authorities to allow him to visit his bed-ridden mother.

The youth was remanded to jail here after being given a hearing in municipal court in Charlestown on a charge of first degree murder of George L. Thomas, 45, judge H. S. Richardson ordered him held without bail for the Sullivan county grand jury.

In addition to the fact that he was not allowed to see his mother the youth was still smarting today under the attack of Atty. Gen. Francis W. Johnson in court.

Johnson characterized him as a "cold-blooded thrill slayer, who had cunningly planned the crime, lured his best friend to a lonely cottage and shot him to death."

County Solicitor John Leahy also placed State Detective Ralph Caswell on the stand and under questioning drew out the boy's story to Caswell, in which he allegedly declared, "I shot him."

Judge Jacob Shublin, counsel for the youth, pleaded that he be admitted to bail, declaring the State had failed to show the killing was deliberate. He asserted the shooting was accidental and that fear had restrained the boy from reporting it to police.

His plea and a dramatic plea by the boy's father were of no avail.

CAMP DEATH SCENE

Plans for the prosecution at the trial of Charles L. Phillips, Jr., 17, of Charlestown, N. H., were taking clearer shape today, following a visit to the scene of the slaying of George L. Thomas, 45, electrical salesman, by Judge Richard Perry, presiding at the preliminary hearing, Francis W. Johnson, New Hampshire attorney-general who will prosecute the case, Sheriff James Thomas, the prisoner, and his father, Thomas was shot to death at the older Phillips' camp, about three and a half miles from Charlestown. Thomas was an employee of the father. When the camp was reached the prisoner protested against alighting.

PROSECUTION PLANS DRAWN

He was finally prevailed upon to do so by his attorney. Then he screamed and broke into a fit of weeping in which he was joined by his father. "I know you're innocent" cried the father, "and I'll stick with you."

SPURT IN FUND DRIVE CHEERS WORKERS

Goal $1,500,000.00
Total to date $1,319,726.33
Still needed $180,273.67
Days to go 32

With today's contributions swelling the emergency campaign fund to $1,319,726.33, Francis A. Barrett, executive manager of the Emergency campaign of 1934, predicted this morning that by Feb. 1, the 15th day of the drive, more than half the $1,500,000 quota will have been received. Yesterday's yield of $10,850, which included $40,000 each from firms and employees of Jordan Marsh Co. and William Finner's Sons and smaller contributions from 11 other department stores, was the largest of any single day.

The other stores' contributions were H. H. Stearns Co., $400; E. H. White Co., $700; C. F. Hovey Co., $400; Gilchrist Co., $300; The Shepard Store, $200; Chandler & Co., $100; E. T. Slattery Co., $100; Conant & Co., $100; Raymonds, Inc., $100; and Shreve, Crump & Low Co., $25.

Barrett pointed out that the "State Emergency Finance Board bears no relation whatever to the Emergency Campaign of 1934, which is the only large organized body now receiving public contributions for the support of grouped convicts."

The following contributions were reported today: Mrs. William T. Aldrich, $200; William T. Aldrich, $200; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolcott, $100; John Mott, $200; Provident Institution for Saving employees, $125.

SLAYER IS FREED AFTER 28 YEARS

One of the most satisfied and perhaps mystified passengers on the Italian liner, Vulcania, when she sails tonight from Cosenza, Italy, for the Mediterranean ports will undoubtedly be Giuseppe Sabatino, who at 5 p. m. is to be released from the State Prison after an incarceration of 28 years. Under the terms of the pardon, given him in December by Gov. Nathan C. Brooks, Sabatino must sail to his native home in Italy and arrangements have been made for him to go under guard from the prison gate to the ship.

During most of his 28 years in prison Sabatino, who is now 72, has worked in the shoe shop. He has saved in that time about $450. It was announced at the prison today that he intends to pay his own passage home.

Sabatino was convicted in 1905 of murder in the second degree. He was found guilty of wounding an axe and causing the death of Alfonso Curi, a fellow railroad employee.

WATERTOWN AID FRAUD CLAIMED

Charged with receiving welfare aid from both Boston and Watertown at the same time and with the possession of firearms, Cesare Viscella, 39, a War Veteran of Arsenal st., Watertown, was arraigned before Judge Cuniff in Waltham District court today and held in $2000 for a hearing Feb. 3.

The Town of Watertown alleges Viscella drew $1545.74 illegally from its welfare department.

Viscella's duplication, it is said, was discovered through a checkup upon when the Federal government began giving aid to cities and towns.

It was shown, police say, that Viscella had been receiving aid from Boston since May 1, 1931, but that in 1932 he overdraw the amount due him and aid was discontinued. He then applied to Watertown, where he had a residence. Later he managed, it is alleged, to get the aid restored from Boston.

SALEM PUPILS SET FOR STRIKE

Salem, Jan. 27.—A policy of watchful waiting today marked the threatened "walkout" of 1600 pupils of the Salem high school, which is slated for next Thursday as a protest against an additional hour of classes ordered by the school authorities.

At the same time officials and class leaders issued a statement reported today. Mrs. William T. Smith had been howled down during an address to the senior class. Instead, spokesmen hastened to add, the meeting was a "very orderly assembly," called by Smith so he could explain the details of the longer day. Under the new ruling, which was undertaken, it was said, to bring the school work to the standard in surrounding cities and towns, school will close at 2:15 instead of 1:15 p. m.

Despite the efforts of school officials to deny bad feeling existed among students over the new order, many pupils freely admitted they would be fully backed up "at home" if they protested the additional hour.

$450,000 Game Project Planned

Samuel A. York, state commissioner of conservation, announced today a recently appointed committee had under consideration an up-land game reservation project in Massachusetts involving an expenditure of approximately $450,000. The project would be carried out either directly by the federal government or by the state with financial aid from Washington. If the plan matures, the department of conservation could have 50,000 acres available for immediate purchase at $5 an acre.

Balbo, 'Exile-Bound,' Cheered in Tripoli

Gen. Balbo, famous Italian flier, was given a royal welcome in Tripoli when he returned with a salute, on his way to the Italian province of Libya where he becomes governor. Balbo led the mass airplane flight from Rome to Chicago and became so popular in his native country, it is reported, that the Jealous Mussolini decided to make him governor of Libya. This left-handed honor virtually marks exile for Italy's foremost aviator. (International News Photos.)

BISHOP DENIES JAPS MOVE FOR JURY FIXING NAVAL PARITY

Tokyo, Jan. 27 (TNS)—Admiral Mineo Gumi, minister of the navy, today confirmed previous intimations Japan will demand naval parity at the 1935 Naval Conference scheduled to be held in Washington.

Answering interpolators in the Diet, Gumi declared Japan had until the end of 1934 to formally notify signatories of the previous Washington Treaty of any intention to nullify its terms in future negotiations.

There is no jury fixing in Middlesex County, according to Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop, statements by Atty. Robert Homans to the contrary notwithstanding.

Homans, government prosecutor in jury fixing cases, said a ring was constantly engaged in bribing jurors in Suffolk County and a few in Middlesex.

"No complaints of tampering with juries have been brought to my attention," said Dist. Atty. Bishop.

Farley Leads Boston Tribute to Curley

POSTMASTER GENERAL FARLEY CHIEF SPEAKER
Hundreds gather tonight at the Copley-Plaza Hotel to pay tribute to Boston's former Mayor James M. Curley. The civic testimonial promises to be one of the most impressive demonstrations of its kind ever held in New England. From Washington comes Postmaster-General James A. Farley, representing the Roosevelt administration. He is the chief speaker. James Roosevelt, son of the President, is toastmaster. Among the notable speakers are Mayor Mansfield and Professor Robert H. Rogers, columnist of the Boston Evening American. Those who know of the speaking ability of Mr.

Curley are sure that tonight they will be well repaid just to hear what they think will no doubt be his best effort in many days. Twelve hundred reservations at $10 a plate are recorded. There will be more than that number on hand to honor Boston's three-term mayor.

M-G-M Assigns W. S. Van Dyke to Direct 'The Thin Man' as Screen Detective Gem

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Los Angeles, Jan. 27.—No prospective picture has ever had a better send-off than "The Thin Man" by Dashiell Hammett, which is a coming cosmopolitan event. Alexander Woolcott, widely read writer and radio speaker, characterized "The Thin Man" as the best detective story yet written. It only needed that little send-off to get all the companies in the business bidding for it.

Therefore, you cannot blame Cosmopolitan and Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer for feeling just a little bit set up over having been able to buy the screen rights. Starting shortly this thriller will be serialized in all the Hearst newspapers.

Place a man in a house directed by W. S. Van Dyke, brought in the merry, merry Sheldie, "The Thin Man" will have the same director, same producer, Hunt Stromberg, and the Louella O. Parsons same personnel, Frances Goodrich and Albert Buckett are adapting it.

Warners couldn't have made Joan Blondell any happier if she had consented to let her be called Joan starnes than when they told her that she could play a string of dramatic roles in "Without Honor." Let all comedienne, Joan has always wanted to be a dramatic actress and this is the time she gets her wish plus a costarring role with James Agnew. "Without Honor," an original by Robert Lord, will unite the Blondell and her sister, Joan, in many a moon. Lloyd Bacon directs them.

All Spain, according to Gilbert Rothenstein, is intensely interested in Douglas Fairbanks plan to produce "Don Q at 45" in Andalusia. Gilbert, who is just back from a visit to his father, Mr. Fairbanks in Spain where he was conferring with Harry Arrast, who is slated to direct the wandering Mr. Fairbanks in this, his next picture. Gilbert was offered the juvenile lead in the coming "Don Q" opus but he could not return abroad as many months as it requires to produce any Fairbanks picture.

By far one of the most interesting pictures to be produced this winter is "How I'd Tell," to be produced by Fox, based on the book of Mrs. Arnold Rothstein. Instead of dealing with the character, leading events in New York during the reign of Rothstein will be pictured. Taking his life as a basis, events of importance that happened while he was a well-known New York character will be pictured. Spencer Tracy, although not at all the type of Rothstein, who was more dapper and much more slender, will have the leading role. I am told that this is not definite, however.

Chatter in Hollywood
If Lillian Harvey carries out her present plan to shake the dust of Hollywood from her feet next month, Willy Fritsch will be waiting for her. Willy.

Great Film Is Kraska Again Held Over at Fine Arts

At the Bowdoin, for the new show, the management has held over "Little Women" because of its tremendous popularity, it being the greatest hit movie in a long period for this theater. In addition, the program has "The Woman in the Hat" with Otto Kruger, Ben Lyon and Una Merkel. "Beauty and the Beast" with Thelma Todd and the vaudeville has Clark Gable, Constance Talmadge, and George Cracker, musicians and dancers. Josephine Cline is a vocalist. The Two Valors are balance.

True Ability

Zasu Pitts, with Slim Summerville in "Love, Honor, and Oh Baby," featured on Gayety Bull, Sunday.

who speaks many a word of English, has sent the Harvey a wedding ring and if Lillian about return to Germany her friends say that she will become Mrs. Fritsch almost immediately. There doesn't seem to be a chance of her getting together with the Fox company and I have an idea that her contract will be settled this week without benefit of options which will hardly be exercised now.

A Line or Two
Pan Berman and his wife returned home last night after a European vacation. Pan now rolls up the sleeves and gets ready to produce "Of Human Bondage." A fair idea of how important Warner Brothers considers "The Key" is gleaned from the addition of Warren William to a cast that already stars William Powell and Kay Francis. This mysterious Mr. X on the radio list is assuming interest. Under cover of night in a Low Chancy-Boris Karloff makeup, the stranger is being tested for "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Rubin, who is directing the tests is keeping the results a profound secret. May Robinson will start her personal appearance tour in New York Feb. 3. A clever sketch, written by the versatile Edgar Allan Woolf, will introduce the grand old lady of the screen to her devoted public. Her appearance is staged simultaneously with the presentation of "We Cannot Buy Everything," a cosmopolitan story with a character that strongly resembles Hetty Green.

Snapshots of Hollywood
A threatened reconciliation between EDDIE SUTHERLAND and his wife, AUDREY HENDERSON, AUDREY has been a daily visitor at EDDIE'S bedside. He is now out of danger but still a very sick boy. LILA LEE is entertaining with a bridge luncheon in honor of her sister, who is visiting her. No less than five producers calling on SOL ROSENBLATT while he was lunching at the Beverly-Whitire. The WILL HAYES, who have been here for the big conference, have for New York next week. Old-home week at the Vine Street Hotel. CONSTANCE BENNETT and the marquis at one table. BARBARA HENNETT at another, and JESSICA and DICK BARTHELMESS in still another corner. JANET GAYNOR, making a hit with many people in New York, on the trip, according to inside information. JOHNNY WEISBERG, assuring reporters that he and LUPE VEEZEL will make up before the ten days' probation. LUPE, not so sure. HEATHER ANGEL with RUBELL GLEASON at "The Drunkard," which continues to flourish like the green bay tree. JIMMIE and LUCILLE chaperoning their son, and the FRANK MORGAN in the same party. That's all today.

George Kraska will soon reopen the Fine Arts Theater for the showing of unusual and artistic films, largely of European origin. The same high standards and the same policy, which governed the theater in the past, will be continued. Mr. Kraska is at present in New York, negotiating for his opening films, and definite announcement of the opening date and attraction will be made shortly.

Stealing the Gold Thunder

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER
Did the Republicans cop the Democratic platform in Chicago? Are the Democrats stealing the Republican money today?

More than a long time ago we remembered that the McKinley campaign badge was a gold bug.

At that time Bill Bryan was singing his song of sixpence.

Today the Democrats are the gold bugs.

That's a strange switch. Seems that the gears and spare parts of the two big parties are interchangeable.

The Republicans have themselves to blame for making the opposition gold conscious. While the grand old party was talking about it the Democrats went out and collected it all.

Fashion Show for Campaign Fund

SEEN IN NOT TOO SOLEMN CONCLAVE yesterday afternoon in the dressing room before the fashion show and tea for the Emergency Campaign, for which we are all indebted to the Boston Tuberculosis Association, Evelyn Weatherly in a cruise outfit of yellow, and most becoming, encouraging the tail and striking Kay Baker to model a beach outfit of gingham which obviously was made to encourage a healthy tan on muddy back. . . Kay consistently demurring. . . Peggy Tarbell being admired in a midnight blue lace and red gown under an ermine wrap of unquestioned magnificence. . . Mary Brown and Eleanor Jones, posing together for photographs and insinuating their names were not fictitious. . . Pauline Erlich, Virginia Leonard, Jane Butler Smith, pleasant Jane Bogardus in pale blue pajamas, Barbara Morton and Mada Allen, all contributing to the laughter and gaiety of the moment. . .

Uptairs, waiting for these models to parade the latest fashions and listening to an appealing speech on behalf of the Emergency Campaign by Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, were Mrs. William Bruce Pratt, Mrs. Frederick Lord, who poured at the tea later, Miss Julia Prendergast, upon whose shoulders age sits lightly, Mrs. Paul Allen accompanied by her mother and Mrs. Adolf Erlich, and other guests, all sitting in rows of chairs in a room which when not in its party array is the salesroom of the Sheltered Workshop. . . The room was small and too crowded to recognize many faces.

The girls in the fashion parade kept step to the splendid music of the Muscetto Trio, a group of youthful girls who gave their time and song on behalf of the campaign. . . When the parade was over we saw Mada Allen walking off with one of the hats she had modelled, the gift of an indulgent grandmother. . .

There's Always Evil in Getting Something for Nothing

By REV. ARTHUR LEE KINDELING
Rector of Trinity Church
The economic crisis has been hind it a moral crisis. So many people have been trying to get something for nothing in this country that in the stock market crash the country's something became almost nothing. So many have become so good at grasping at our common table that more were left with empty plates. Persuading others to buy what they did not want with money they did not have was so successful that soon many couldn't buy what they did want because of debt they did have. The new world depends on whether you and I find strength to stand for what is honest and unselfish in the face of demoralizing opportunities. . .

in the social world

With Dorothy Whipple Fry
SO MANY INTERESTING THINGS are being done by the young people today. There never was a time when youth enjoyed more freedom but it is with joy that we note that the pendulum has already begun to swing the other way and that "this freedom" which was causing so much consternation when it seemed to be diverted into the wrong channels, is now becoming one of the most hopeful signs for the future of the country, since the activities of the young people are developing along such wholesome lines. . .

For example, attractive Marion Leeson, debutante daughter of Mr. Robert Leeson of Commonwealth ave. spends her time in a snappy sport skirt of tan tweed with the brown leather jacket and trig fitting sport hat trip shooting in the very charmingly illustrated picture she makes a winter ski Marion Leeson is taking a direct line to the right shoulder taking aim. . .

Also among the attractive group enjoying the sport of trap shooting is Mrs. William J. Potter, Jr. in a grey tweed skirt with leather jacket of a dark green. Mrs. Potter before her marriage was the gay and charming Elvira Boardman, and we might add that she has lost nothing of her youthful charm. . .

Miss Olive Stone in black velvet with little Lord Flaubert bow in hair is also attracting much attention with her smile. Miss Elizabeth Jenner, another youthful skier wearing a black velvet skirt lined with blue, has no difficulty in doing her edge and figure shifts with grace and precision. . .

MISS SERRA BARTLETT, accompanied by her mother, Matthew Bartlett, have just returned from New York where they have been spending a few days in the celebration of the Junior League Club. . .

MRS. AND MRS. CARLETON SHURTLEFF FRANCIS JR., of the Homestead at Yale University last Saturday, are home-mooning at the Homestead in Hot Springs. Mrs. Francis is Val for Miss Doreen Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edson P. Galloway of Pine Crocker, Ct. and the young bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Carleton S. Francis of Brookline.

Pull 'Chute Ring if Life Is Sweet

New York, Jan. 27 (U.S.)—Don't forget to pull the ring, Matthew Bartlett has handed out this bit of advice after his first parachute leap from a plane 2000 feet above Westfield. . .

There was all right, but Ritz somehow forgot to pull the ring which released the parachute from its pack. As a result he fell until he was only 200 feet from the ground. Then the chute opened and he landed all right. With a gulp he said: "I forgot to pull the ring until I saw the splash coming up at me." . .

CLEVER EYE MAKEUP AND NAIVE BONNETS - GAY RAINCOATS PREVENT DAMP SPIRITS

Off-the-Face Hats Point to Eyes So Do Learn Flattering Eye-Shadow Tints

By Therese Deschamps

GLAMOUR WHILE YOU wait! Your eyes will have "it" if you learn the rules of optical makeup. Perhaps your new spring bonnet resembles a naive baby bonnet posed on the back of your head, or a fisherman's sou'wester, but your lashes will need to be darkened slightly with mascara, and your brows touched up lightly with a pencil.

Always a beauty asset, eye makeup will be absolutely essential this spring, for eyes will be the focal point of attention under the away-up-turned brims of off-the-face hats.

Eye makeup must be the right color and used with a deft hand, or the results will be very artificial looking—and no woman wants that. Always use reliable cosmetics and apply them sparingly. If you aren't experienced in using them experiment a bit before your dressing table until you get the best effect.

... Always a bit uncertain what you'll wear, eye shadow and eye-liner suit your type? There are many variations in the use of eye shadow and eye-liner. It can be divided into groups—fair, medium and dark.

Fair women with delicate white hair and blonde hair should wear brown mascara for both eyelids and evening occasions. If you are of medium coloring, with brown or red hair, and a complexion which is neither dark nor light, you probably will find eye shadow becoming for day, and dark or evening. Violets or dark blue mascara for all occasions. Choose your eyebrow pencil, these same general rules, and you'll avoid that glaring "old maid" look. If you have eye shadow, it's hard to give any rule about choosing that. The newest idea is to make it to the rock or hat. And if you don't enjoy experimenting with cosmetics a good general rule is to follow in select eye shadow in the same shade as or a bit darker than your eyes—brown for brown eyes, blue for blue eyes, green for green eyes, and so on.

Have you seen those delightful blue-gray pastes that make the particular color of blue or gray eyes to perfection? If you are a red head with gray, hazel or greenish eyes and milky skin, you'll find that green eye shadow looks stunning, especially under artificial lights. And if you have an olive skin and black dusky eyes, you'll find that green eye shadow looks stunning, especially under artificial lights. Beauty Questions and Answers

Natural Brows

Question: I have a round face, high cheek bones, dark brown hair and eyes. Knowing this, what would you recommend regarding shaping or plucking my eyebrows?—B. M. E. Concord, N. H.

Answer: Your eyebrows this year are more natural. Hairline brows have definitely gone out of fashion. Have you noticed how many of the movie stars are allowing their brows to assume heavier, more natural lines? If your brows are very heavy and shaggy—like some I've seen—try a few tweezers out a few of the straggling hairs along the upper and lower line... but that's all.

More Curves

Question: I am 5 feet 7 inches tall, and only weigh 110 pounds. I'd like to weigh more than this and would like some suggestions.—Mrs. A. P. Cliftondale.

Answer: Why not have a physical examination by your doctor to see if you are in good health? Then make a point of getting plenty of sleep, avoid worrying and get as much rest as possible. In addition, eat more nourishing food, and try to drink a glass of milk with each meal.

Gray Hair

Question: My hair is beginning to turn slightly gray. How can I restore its natural color without using a dye?—Mrs. L. E. G. Boston.

Answer: Why not try one of the harmless vegetable dyes on the market? They are not a dye, and must be applied again after each shampoo. I have the names of several which I'll mail you if you write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Daily Suggestion for Self-Improvement

When you happen to put some VERY HOT food in your mouth, don't take it out again with your fork. Instead, sip some cold water to cool your mouth.

Yellow Silk Is Sky Blue Lined

By Victoria Gaines

(Authentic last-minute fashions from New York—the style center of America)

ONE OF THE BEST ways of providing for that well-worn rainy-day outfit. Starks may fall and bonds may pass their dividends, but a really good raincoat is a never-failing safeguard, both fashionably and financially speaking. Raincoats in this case include the complete ensemble coat, hat and umbrella—for a dull day is no excuse for a dull costume this season.

GAY GET-UPS

No spring shower can dampen the spirit of a girl who is wearing one of the new checked or dotted coats, with hat and umbrella to match, in blue, brown or black with white. And we defy the elements to withstand a gay get-up like this—a red and white plaid cape coat with a broad and rubberized plain red. Rubberized raincoats are those clever umbrellas with room for your rubbers in the handle. There's a cute suit for the college student, in slicker style, but made of rubberized silk instead of the traditional oilskins. It includes a rubberized coat and rubber hat of yellow silk—and here's the surprise—both have contrasting colored linings of blue! This business of turning a bright side to a dark world is carried out in innumerable color combinations of red and blue, blue and gold, green and orange, as well as the more conventional white, beige or black. One clever coat that features the popular rubber-hitch is strictly for sixteen-year-olds or younger—it combines both types in a demure white exterior with a bold blue-and-red checked lining for the coat and cowl.

THIS AS TISSUE

If you ever struggled during a summer shower with the problem of getting soaked or awetted in a hot, heavy raincoat, there's good news for you in a new waterproof fabric. It's an Oriental silk, thin as tissue paper, yet so treated that it is as water-resistant as the toughest tent. And this luxurious finish will make it as popular in fall weather, too, for beach and golf wear.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

It appears to be a sort of obsession with the modern man to marry something beautiful—but dumb—and then spend the rest of his life relieving his boredom by playing around with a woman who understands him. Most girls go to parties with the idea of setting some interesting man; but nine times out of ten it is the casual accidental meeting of two heads to the altar. Because, somehow, a woman is always more attractive when she is not on parade or out for conquest.

Everybody MEANS well. Doubtless the man who first thought of modernistic furniture expected to be remembered with gratitude and a monument.

A man has not reached the Age of Discretion until he believes the most unflattering thing his doctor tells him; a woman, until she believes the most unflattering thing her mirror tells her. Love is the most difficult thing for a successful woman to find—

Chaps

Question: My lips chap badly in cold weather. Please suggest something to correct this.—P. L. Boston.

Answer: Coldest lip pomades which may be purchased at all most any drug store or cosmetic counter—just apply liberally after washing and correcting chapped lips.

Looking out over the silent St. Lawrence, dotted with great moving flocks of ice, watching the flag on a citadel standing out frozen stiff to the breeze, all of it whipped away in a bitter northeaster but a square mile to the pole; plodding along on skis, watching the bright jackets and toques and stashes of the youngsters, and a few oldsters, around me; their cheeks as red as any red-sash there, I thought, how funny: Jill here is having her good time at 20 below, and Jill THERE, in sunny California, is having hers in a balmy 68 or 70. HERE the wind carries the scent of millions of pine trees. There it wafts roses to the delicate nose. Here are wool and heavy boots, and mittens as thick as a half-inch board, and as impervious to the cold. There Jill is stripped to just this side of nudity, and she is thinking of going swimming. HERE Jill is done out like an Egyptian (Kishino), and she is NOT thinking of going swimming. She is watching ice sparrels in the air like flying tin cans.

But rose or ice-thing, wool or bare skin, each is having her good time, just as what half the world thinks is fun is what the rest of it shivers at. To have the good time is the thing. To always be young enough inside the heart to find it.

SUNSHINE EGGS

Place slices of bread on grids of broiler and toast a slice of cheese, about ¼ inch thick and ¼ inch high on each grid. Place the cheese on the grids. Put the contents of these together with toothpicks. After this cheese is browned in the broiler, drop an egg in the center of the bread. Place a small piece of butter on top, or a slice of bacon and a little salt and pepper. Place broiler in oven for about 5 minutes until cheese and eggs are browned. This makes a delicious Sunday night snack. Can be baked in pan instead of on the broiler.

Pandora Tells You

DEAR PANDORA: I am a girl in my tender but tried twenties. My ex-husband and I have been married for a long time. I am a girl in my tender but tried twenties. My ex-husband and I have been married for a long time.

By MRS. BEECKMAN: DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Will you kindly let me know how to address and introduce my new stepmother to my friends? I am 22 years of age and unmarried.

First, how you introduce your stepmother depends on what you yourself call her, and your feeling for her. If she has your affection and devotion achieved the privilege of being called "Mother," by you, you would introduce her by this name. "Mother, this is Miss Allen." "Mother, may I present to you, this is my stepmother, Florence."

If you use neither of these intimate names, if your stepmother is "Mrs. Lewis" to you, and if you feel that it is a graceful and understanding person to call her by her name, then you refer to her by this name, or by the rather forbidding name "stepmother." "My stepmother, Mrs. Lewis," or "Miss Allen, this is my stepmother."

When you introduce people to people who own alarm clocks, I take a deep breath and prepare for the most strenuous part of the evening. Having established me in my own opinion, I take a deep breath and prepare for the most strenuous part of the evening. Having established me in my own opinion, I take a deep breath and prepare for the most strenuous part of the evening.

DEAR WINNIE: If you're not too weary, why not treat yourself to a course in self-defense? I'm not sure, but I think it would be a good idea. I think it would be a good idea. I think it would be a good idea.

DEAR PANDORA: I am a girl in my tender but tried twenties. My ex-husband and I have been married for a long time. I am a girl in my tender but tried twenties. My ex-husband and I have been married for a long time.

WILSON PROCLAIMS WAR
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN FINAL EDITION EXTRA
PRESIDENT SIGNS DECLARATION
U.S. CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Washington, April 6.—The United States formally entered the war of nations at 1:13 o'clock today. At that hour President Wilson attached his signature to the declaration, declaring that a state of war exists between this nation and the Imperial German government, and pledging all the co-ordinated resources of the nation to helping the war to a successful close.
Five minutes after the President had signed the resolution he addressed a proclamation to the American people and issued a call for volunteers.
The President has signed an act of Congress which declares that a state of war exists between the United States and the Imperial German government.

THE YANKS ARE COMING!—Unflinching and deliberate in the face of a murderous fire Companies M and K, of the 326th Infantry, Eighty-second division, advance on this strong enemy position, throwing hand grenades. There was no stopping, once they started, even against seemingly insurmountable obstacles. This furious charge took place on August 1, 1918, at Chole, France. It indicated the crumbling of the German defense.

FLOYD GIBBONS' Uncensored WAR PICTURES

CLAMP LID ON Newspapermen Do Meet Star Athletes, Soldiers
Lots of Interesting Writers, Gunmen, Fill

By PAT ROBINSON
New York, Jan. 27 (INS)—Somebody's always taking the chess out of the martini. Today it's the New York State Athletic Commission which, in a sweeping new decision, has clamped a mean and confining lid on the rasslin' racket.
It's a shame, that's what it

There's a bromide about newspapermen: "Maybe you don't make much money, but you do meet lots of interesting people." Like most bromide utterances there is truth in this one. In the years I have been battling hither, thither and yon I have met plenty of folks who I understand and who understand me.

The Prince of Wales: I was introduced to him at St. Andrew when Bobby Jones won the British amateur golf championship. He wore a brain-shaking brown-and-pink checkered golf suit . . . but was so delightfully pleasant and informal that it was a pleasure to be in his company.

My answer: I didn't get to know the Manassas Mauler really.

and Mons. Jacques Curley, who feeds, trains and exhibits who herd the pacifists. The president of the President Roosevelt dropped unimportant things like the NRA, CWA, the gold standard and international pacifists, and take up the sacred rights and fillets of the grant groan and grimace industry. Yes — or, per Jacques thinks to be a little more drastic, to get from the bottom of the deck, a whole deck at that.

"Just look at the inhumanity of it all," wailed Jacques today. "The people are not going to let their favorite rascal tossed out of the ring ring into their laps, and not the common says that's out. 'Aye, they can't stomach, gouge, haul or strangle. With a little sweat, they can't even bite, and anybody can show me a finer night than an enraged grapple."

[illegible]

The good Jacques sobbed in his turn. "I have no money," he said, "as you can read on some of the other posters" like these. "I have never paid my rent. No doctor's examination. All rascals must be so poor, I am to work!"

"No payer can manage to register. No manager can be a master. All payments must be made in checks, not cash. Some of the money must be figured out well as it might be a little more or what? (chinking) All clubs must sell their shows exhibitions, not matches."

And he turned to liberty—maxima and bold laugh.

TEX RICKARD JACK DEMPSEY

Bill Tilden: Almost the equal of Duntize in energy. The first time I met Big Bill was a dozen years ago. He was writing for the Ledger Syndicate. A big tennis story broke but he didn't mention it in his story . . . but gave the whole yarn in an interview another paper. Joe McGinnis sent me to the Germantown Academy where Tilden was coaching the dramatic club, with instructions how the champion ought properly. I did it as well as I could . . . and we have been friendly ever since.

Blacklist Passes Up Grand National

New York, Jan. 27. — George Plimpton, author of "Paper Lion" and "Paper Moon," will not go to England to participate in the Grand National at Aintree in April, as he has been blacklisted by the British, with his curfew, the former Laura Elizabeth Curdie.

The Brits have their baggage packed and are ready to hop over to New York for tomorrow night's game with Rangers, which will mark Eddie Shore's first appearance in the NHL since he was blacklisted for having been involved in a murder case. There has not had any body contact and therefore does not know how much time he has before he steps into some Blue shirt.

Around the N. H. L. circuit, the wiser heads hope that there will be no more of this kind of thing.

Ken Kesel, the former Baltimore hockey for Baltimore, Kesel has the ability to make any minor league team in the country and is expected to be playing for the developed to N. H. L. calibre.

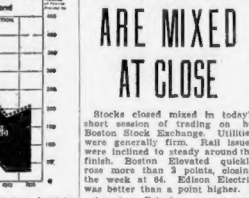

Coach Herbie Gill is priming the Portsmouth squad for Harvard and the Big Green has been playing well in the college ranks.

The Big Green has as regards practice this season and as a result of the season is in between condition. It would be a feather in the cap of the team.

Both are members of the Joyous Heart's Club. Fourth place went to Roger Demers, a local youth, in 2:01.07.
